

TREKKING THROUGH GREAT NEIGHBORHOODS

Friday | April 3, 2009 | 9am to 4pm

Join CPF in its third annual sustainability walking tour with this year's excursion in dynamic and diverse Oakland. Learn about green jobs, urban food systems, regional planning initiatives, and all 3 E's of sustainability (environment, economy, and social equity).

Starting at the ferry terminal located in the tourist and transportation hub of Jack London Square, the tour will include the following lively pedestrian-oriented districts and leading-edge sustainability initiatives:

- Hear about new development at Jack London Square
- Enjoy the Old Oakland Farmer's Market
- Visit Oakland's first LEED-certified existing building, the University of California President's Office, with presentation from Matt St. Clair
- Learn from Sustainability Coordinator Garrett Fitzgerald and Deborah Acosta about Oakland's climate change and recent downtown Oakland development
- Meet with Emily Kirsch of the Ella Baker Center to discuss their green collar jobs campaign
- Tour and learn more about Uptown with the new Fox Theater
- Visit the new Mandela Foods Cooperative with presentations from Wells Larson, Dana Harvey, and Nathan Cheng
- Listen to ABAG planners, Ken Kirkey and Ceil Scandone, about SB 375 and the Bay Area Green Business Program
